BIG BUCK CONTEST

Fantasia Price, of Granville, downed this nine-point buck on opening day at 7:30 a.m. in Strodes Mills using a .243 rifle. This is her largest deer and she plans to have a shoulder mount done. Price is a participant in the Share the Harvest program.

Chris Powers, of Lewistown, downed this seven-point buck on Nov. 29 at 10 a.m. in Oliver Township using a Remington 30.06 rifle. He plans to have a shoulder mount done.

Craig Weaver, of Yeagertown, shot his largest deer on opening day at 9 a.m. in Lingle Valley using a Super Slugger 2 shotgun. The seven-point buck was the first buck he has shot since 1986. He said he saw a lot of deer this year which he said is unusual for him.

Amy Fidler, of Lewistown, shot her first deer on opening day at 8:30 a.m. in Juniata County using a .243 rifle. The six-point buck has a 9 1/2 inches outside spread. She plans to have a Texas mount done. She is pictured with Steve Rauch Jr., left, and Matthew Fink Jr.

Franklin Stuck Jr., of New Lancaster Valley, shot his largest buck on opening day at 8:45 a.m. in New Lancaster Valley, using a a Remington 30.06 rifle. The 10-point buck has an outside spread of 15 inches. He plans to have a shoulder mount done. He said he saw the buck an hour and a half before he

James Wileman Jr., right, and his son Tyler sit with James' six-point buck he havested with a .270 Browning rifle on Dec. 3 in Granville Township, Mifflin County. He was hunting with Tyler when he bagged his largest deer to date and first buck since the antler restrictions took effect.