BIG BUCK CONTEST

Harrison Chesney, 12, of Burnham, shot his first buck on Dec. 3 at 12:15 p.m. in Granville, Mifflin County, using a .223 Winchester rifle. The three-point buck is his largest deer and he plans to do an European mount. He was hunting with his father, Matt Chesney, his uncle, Bill Dougherty, and Jack Armstrong. He said he had to track it for 70 yards until he found it in the creek.

Tanner Mitchell, 6, of Lewistown, shot his first deer at 4:30 p.m. Nov. 10 in Jackson Township, Huntingdon County, using a crossbow. The two-point has an outside spread of 9 inches. He was hunting with his father, grandfather and cousin. He plans to mount the rack on a plaque.

LEFT: Isaiah Kearns, 14, of Lewistown, shot this seven-point buck on opening day in East Waterford using a Remington .243 rifle. He was hunting with his father, Todd.

Brandon Snook, 12, of McClure, shot his first deer on Dec. 8 at 4:55 p.m. on Shade Mountain using a .270 Remington rifle. The four-point buck was downed after hunting for a half hour with his father James and sister Janell Miller.

Zoey Clouser, 12, of Lewistown, shot her first deer on opening day at 3:45 p.m. in Lack Township while hunting with her father, Damon. The six-point buck was taken down by using a Remington .222 rifle. She plans to have a European mount done.
