Gavin Knouse

Night
By Gavin Knouse

Shining moon and stars
Wolves singing, spiders creeping,
Night is amazing!

Zoe Kirk

Snow
By Zoe Kirk

Beautiful white snow
Cool, crisp, freezing, icy snow
We all adore you, snow.

Garrett learns business

mother, who works at Juniata High School, and asked if Garrett could design a “no skate boarding” sign and a sign at the school’s entrance to ring the door bell. Also, Garrett has posted vinyl signs on all of the outside doors of Juniata High School and several no skate boarding signs, asked by the school’s principal.

Garrett says his father, Michael Clark, helps him with the operational aspect of the business.

“He gives me pointers, he’s always looking out for me making sure I have everything under control,” Garrett says.

For his 16th birthday, Garrett’s father took him to the bank to open an account to help teach responsibility and money management.

“He’s always told me to never pay myself first,” Garrett says. “This is how you keep the business going.”

So Garrett would just put money made from designing signs right back into the business.

But now, “yes,” Garrett says, he pays himself, chuckling.

When asked if he has a girlfriend, Garrett replies, “yes.”

“And, you know, the thing with a girl is your money disappears and you don’t know where it goes,” he says with a laugh.
